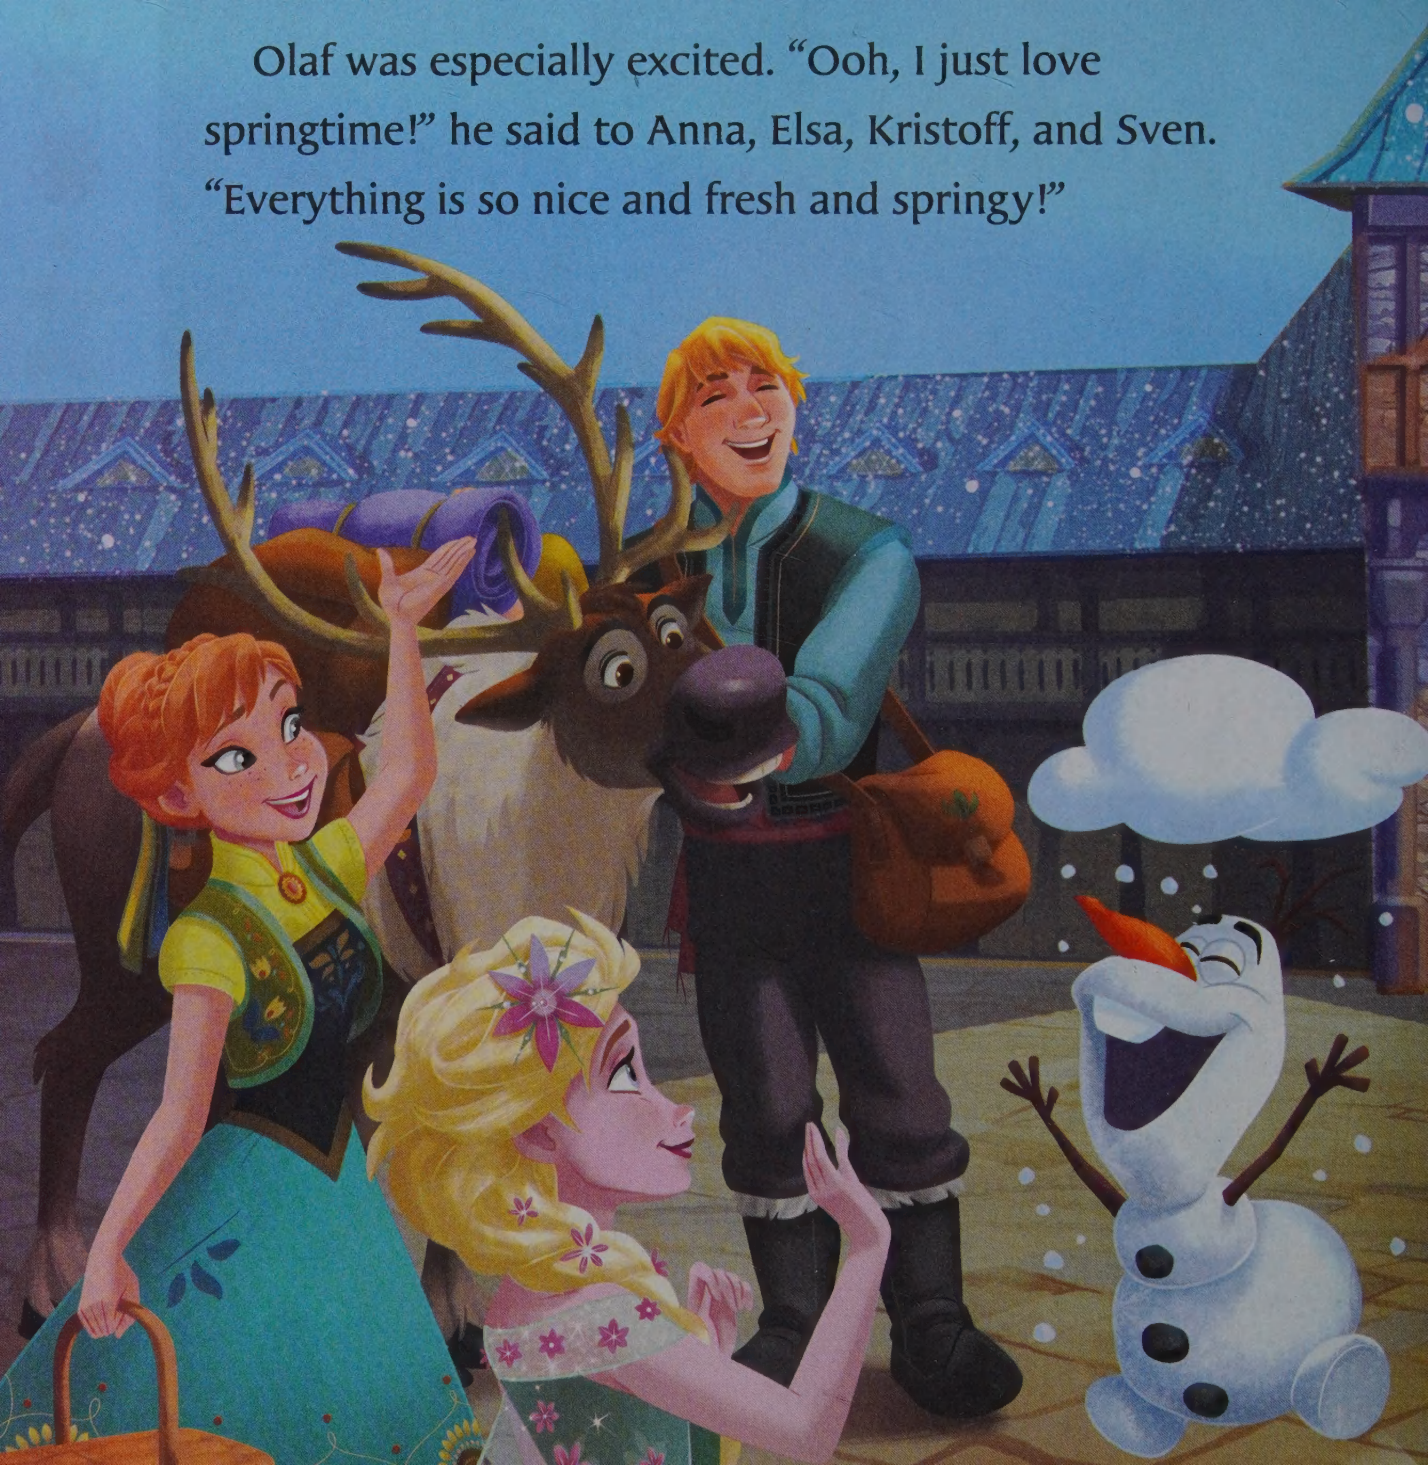
The long Arendelle winter was finally over. Anna thought of a great way to welcome spring: a picnic with her sister and her best friends!

Olaf was especially excited. "Ooh, I just love springtime!" he said to Anna, Elsa, Kristoff, and Sven. "Everything is so nice and fresh and springy!"



While the friends walked to the perfect picnic spot, they stopped to admire the signs of spring. Olaf took a big sniff of some flowers.

"ACHOO!"

"Careful," Elsa warned the snowman. "You might sneeze your nose right off!"

Sven made friends with a colorful butterfly.

Kristoff looked for shapes in the fluffy white clouds.

Elsa and Anna noticed a pair of birds that had just migrated back to the kingdom.
"Welcome home," Anna said.

The fresh air felt so good, Kristoff and Anna decided to run.

"Bet I get to the picnic spot first!" she teased him.

Soon the blanket was spread out and everyone was ready for the picnic.

Anna unpacked the supplies. She'd brought plates, cups, and forks . . .

. . . but no food!

"Oh, no!" Anna cried. "I forgot the most important part of the picnic!"

Just then, it started to rain.

"A spring shower!" Olaf cheered. "I just love spring showers!"

"It will probably pass soon," Kristoff said hopefully.

But the little shower quickly turned into a downpour! The friends huddled beneath the picnic blanket to stay dry.

"What else could go wrong?" Anna said.

The rain soaked through the blanket. As the friends got wetter and wetter, Elsa came up with a solution.

She used her ice magic to create a gazebo with a waterproof roof! Everyone rushed inside.

Now out of the rain, Anna realized she hadn't forgotten ALL the food—she'd brought yummy chocolates for dessert!

Everyone agreed that it was the sweetest springtime picnic ever!
